

Pertaining to the FCC adopting a no call privacy law of their own that would supercede individual states laws that have been recently enacted. A federal law or rule would be too broad based, allowing for gaps and loopholes to be exploited by telemarketers. Indiana's law 100% eliminated telemarketing calls we receive. Do not change that! Prior to this law, we had received approximately 2-3 solicitations per day. We receive zero, and wish it remain that way. Please allow the states to govern how commerce is regulated, as Indiana does not need the help of the FCC in this law.
